“ To those who loved Marcus Simmons, please know that fellow students and teachers at UNC Greensboro grieve and share your loss. I was working at UNCG last fall and an observer in Dr. Gene Rogers's class on Elements of Christian Thought. It was a privilege to check in with Marcus after class. Dr. Rogers and the department chair for Religious Studies, Dr. Gregory Grieve, join me in extending our sympathy for your loss.

If I can help you, I live in Charlotte (though I travel back and forth to Massachusetts) and can be reached any time or place by cell 704-999-1044 or via email eahardinwy@gmail.com

We are so very sorry for your loss, but we are praying that the Lord will grant you peace, comfort and strength during this most difficult time. We also pray that He will give you beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for your mourning and a garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness.
